intro

So often I hear guests say, “I don’t know anything about wine” or “I don’t know what I like.” I used to be that person! During dinners out with friends, I would pass the wine list like a hot potato. I did NOT want to be caught with it and feel that pressure to select something I felt I knew nothing about.

With time, curiosity got the better of me and I set out to learn and formally study in my own time. While my knowledge of wine may have increased (though truly it’s a lifetime of study), my understanding of how intimidating and confusing it can be has never left me. And so at Ardesia, I am on a mission to bring wine to you in a way that ignites excitement and interest.

To that end, we have re-created our wine list and organized it by style, mood & occasion. Whether you are a wine novice or a trained sommelier, we want you to relax and have fun with our list. Maybe explore something new. Maybe fall back to a familiar favorite. (That said, if you prefer to search the list regionally, you can find that version at the back.)

As the respected wine writer Jon Bonné once said, “ordering wine should be a conversation, not a test.”

— SAKE —

“A few years ago I attended a sake & cheese tasting and I was blown away by how delicious and unique the pairings were. I decided then and there that Ardesia needed to have a special sake on our list; one that could complement our artisanal cheese list.

What is sake anyway? It is a traditional Japanese rice beverage made by fermenting specific strains of rice with kōji, yeast, and water. While usually referred to as rice wine, the process of making it has more in common with brewing beer. Sake can encompass a range of styles, from delicate and floral, to earthy and lactic, to sweet and fruity.” - Mandy

Sake does not normally have a vintage, but this producer works with single-vintage rice that they grow themselves!

This Sake is on the round and full bodied side but at the same time is lively, and zesty with a core of minerality and berry and apple flavors. Pair it alongside one of our cheeseboards for a match made in heaven!

— CHAMPAGNE —

Champagne is not just for celebrations! Primarily from one or all of the following three grapes: Chardonnay, Pinot Noir, Pinot Meunier. Styles vary greatly from bottle to bottle, but what they all have in common is complexity and the feeling that the night could go on forever when you are drinking it.

SAUV BLANC ALTERNATIVES

Sauvignon Blanc is a go-to order for many people, and with its zesty, fruity profile and clean finish, it's easy to see why it's so beloved. That said - if you're looking to branch out, try one of these wines that share similarities to the superstar varietal but may be new to you!

Verdejo, Pago del Cielo, 'Celeste', Rueda, Spain 2021 $50

Slightly textured with notes of lemon zest, white flowers and fennel. For all of the Sancerre drinkers.

Vermentino Barboursville Vineyards, Virginia 2019 $58

Tart and citrusy, with notes of sweet almond and crunchy peaches.

Semillon Tyrell's, Hunter Valley, Australia 2022 $60

For those who prefer a riper style from the new world, with aromas of lime, yellow pear, and melon rind.

Semillón Escandalo, Colchagua Valley, Chile 2022 $56

A more herbal style with notes of bay laurel. This wine is unfiltered - perfect for the natural wine lover.

— AROMA THERAPY —

Some wines have pronounced aromas of flowers such as honeysuckle or fruits like lychee. We love that these wines are distinctive and evocative, with intense aromas bursting out of the glass. Pro tip: drink them with hard to match dishes such as salads or foods with a slight kick!

— COASTAL WHITES —

Terroir class is now in session! Wines from seaside regions often reflect the maritime air and bright sunshine that vacationers love. Salty, citrusy aromas pervade as a result of cooling breezes, while riper yellow fruits from warming rays play a supporting role. These wines will instantly transport you to your favorite beach resort.

CASE STUDY: CHARDONNAY

Are you an A.B.C (anything but Chardonnay) drinker? Challenge your opinions and give Chardonnay another chance - you might just walk away with a different impression by the end of the bottle!

As one of the most versatile and widely planted varietals in the world, Chardonnay can range from lean and bright to rich and creamy and everything in between, all depending on where it is grown and the decisions of the winemaker.

Chardonnay hails from the cool climate region of Burgundy in France, and produces some of the most sought after wines in the world. The white wines of Burgundy show the full range of Chardonnay, from younger, leaner versions to opulent, age-worthy oaked styles. Across the Atlantic, California Chardonnay often gets a bad rap for being overly oaked and buttery, but with a new wave movement shaking things up over the last decade, it is impossible to paint Chardonnay with one buttery brush. Now you will find leaner expressions with less oak treatment and malolactic fermentation (which gives wines that distinctive buttery taste and texture) allowing the wines to lead with their natural ripe, tropical fruit flavors.

— OFF-DRY TO SWEET —

The key to any great wine is balance. For a sweet wine to not taste cloying and syrupy it needs to have a sufficient acidity to balance out the residual sugar. When we are looking for sweet wines for the list, this sense of balance is what we are seeking. These are some examples of wines that we find to be gracefully sweet. Give them a try alongside a cheese slate for a match made in heaven.

ORANGE FAQs

Is orange wine a new thing?

While orange wines have gained a great deal in popularity in recent years, this style of wine is as ancient as winemaking itself, dating back almost 6000 years from the area where Georgia (the country) is now.

Is orange wine made from oranges?

Nope! Orange wine is made by leaving the skins of white grapes in contact with the fermenting juice (normally the skins are immediately removed in the production of white wine).

What does orange wine taste like?

As a result of the skin contact, deeper, more concentrated flavors can develop in these wines. They tend to be a more bold and savory version of a wine from the very same grape, with added tannin and texture.

— ROSÉ —

We seek out rosés that are dry and delicious, whether they are uncomplicated poolside sippers or those with deep color and more complex, robust flavors. Try a familiar favorite like those from France, or branch out to a lesser known region like Hungary.

PINOT NOIR AROUND THE WORLD

Pinot Noir is hands down the most ordered red here at Ardesia. Why is it so beloved? It is famous for its delicate, ethereal red fruit flavors and its ability to express a sense of place, sometimes down to a very specific row of vines within a vineyard. While its home is the Burgundy region of France, and despite it being considered one of the most fickle and hard to grow grapes, winemakers from all over the world successfully grow expressions of their own terroir.

* Let's talk about Merlot - it sure does get a bad rap. This is partially because the movie Sideways (2004) mocked the grape as part of its story line, and had such an impact that sales of Merlot dropped (while Pinot Noir skyrocketed). Some producers across California even tore up their Merlot vines. We are here to remind you that Merlot is in fact a grape that makes delicious wines! Round, soft, and easy to drink with bright red fruit. Not to mention, it's one of the main grapes in some of the most famous blends from Bordeaux.

— DECODE PIEDMONT —

The region of Piedmont (or Piemonte in Italian [pyeh-MON-tay]) is one of the most famous, not only in Italy, but also around the world. It is best known for its reds with incredible aging potential, especially those from Barolo and Barbaresco where wines are made from the beautiful Nebbiolo grape. Situated in the northwest corner of Italy, the region is surrounded on three sides by mountains—the Alps in the north and west and the Apennines in the south. The ancient phrase “a pie de monte” literally means at the “foot of the mountains.”

— EARTHY & ROBUST —

Wines with a savory edge, often with notes of dark fruit flavors, cigar box, and leather. At Ardesia, we call these “sexy wines” - wines with mystery that are dense yet elegant, structured yet concentrated. Open a bottle and see what we mean!

— BOLD. —

Looking for a red that packs a punch? These wines check all the boxes: bold in flavor, richness, and structure. The highest ends of the spectrum. They often hail from warmer regions which produce grapes with high levels of sugar that then convert to high levels of alcohol during fermentation (wine 101!). The result is a wine with a full body, intensity, and muscle. Bonus: pair these with fatty foods - their robust tannins allow them to stand up to the richness of the dish.
